"The Ordeal of Inspiration" by Ken Brown

The abyss in which the maelstrom rages, the violent clashing and grating of color and form exist as gasoline in a small creek, though not nearly as silent or alien. Within this chaos, a light is conceived. A near spark. It explodes, suffocating the void. From the depths of the void a torrent of light explodes outward. It issues forth into the world in streaks. It manifests itself in the artist's palette, the writer's manuscript, the musician's concert, the actor's theory, and the politician's speech. It springs from one, bounces to another, collides with yet more, ceaselessly crashing and leaping from one exhibition to another. Finally, its power exhausted, its brilliance dimmed, the illumination recedes back into its womb, the abyss. Though it may be gone, the effects of its rampage are left forever, as marks of greatness and beauty upon the world.

BAC, AT, KK, KC, SL, AS:

Regardless of whom I meet, or what I do, or what I will become, it is the friends I grew up with that I feel the closest to, and that I have the most in common with. Though we won't see each other often, when we do, it will be as if we were always together- so comfortable, so natural, so honest, I guess old friends.

Nature's first green is gold,
Her hardest hue to hold.
Her early leaf's a flower,
But only so an hour.
Then leaf subsided to leaf.
So Eden sank to grief.
So dawn goes down to day,
Nothing gold can stay.

 Chris, Liz: It's nice to see there's still some girls with some sense. I hope your friendship lasts as long as the both of you.
 Fab: We kidded a lot, so why stop now . . . You're still a preppy . . . Take care.
 Joann: We've had a weird friendship, but it was worth it.
 Mr. Matson: Only you know what went on in the 600's.
 Mr. Chimes: I know that if I get A.I.D.s, it'll be your doing.
 Mr. Schmidt: The only thing I can say is thank you, and I've learned a lot from you. (Especially at Pendle Hill where I learned it's not a good idea to go on a trip with you.) Thanks again.
 Mrs. Lager: I never told you this, but I have a crush on you, but I guess it's too late for the both of us now. Seriously, though, you taught me everything I know about French . . . Adios.
 Mom and Dad: I hope you're proud of the way you brought me up, because I'm proud of the both of you, and I Love You.
